

GREA - London HQ Branch
Summer Social - Wednesday 12th July

Our Summer Social will be held once again at The Anchor, Southwark, on Wednesday July 12th, where we will have exclusive use of the terrace bar from 12.00 midday until 3.00 p.m. If the weather is fine and sunny we'll be able to enjoy the view over the Thames towards St.Paul's and the ghastly new buildings in the City, but at least it looks as if that ridiculous Garden Bridge won't be built. If it rains there's plenty of room inside near the buffet and the bar.

For those who haven't been there before the Anchor is really close to some of my favourite London locations - Southwark Cathedral (13th century), Borough Market (excellent views of the tourists and the foodie stalls), Tate Modern (good for a laugh) the Golden Hind replica, the Globe Theatre, the Millennium Bridge and so much more.

So come and join us, meet and/or bring some old colleagues, enjoy the everlasting buffet and some good beers. It will cost you just £15/head (same as last year) but you have to buy your own booze.

For details of how to get there try the map on the Anchor website - Google Anchor Southwark.

The nearest stations are London Bridge and Blackfriars, but you could instead stroll down along the riverside from Waterloo, or St.Paul's.
